New here? Read sections 1 to 5. That covers the daily loop: sign in, add a lead, log what happened, qualify it, and keep in touch. Everything else can wait until you need it.

1 Getting started

Signing in for the first time

- 1 Open <https://propertyagent-crm.lanthornrealty.workers.dev> in your browser. Add it to your phone's home screen — you will use it in the field.
- 2 Choose Sign up and register with your work email address.
- 3 Verify your email if prompted.
- 4 You will land on a screen saying Account pending approval. This is normal.
- 5 Tell your administrator you have registered. Once they approve you, sign in again and you will reach the dashboard.

Why the wait? New accounts arrive switched off on purpose. Client records include identity-card numbers and budgets, so nobody sees data until an administrator grants access.

What your role lets you do

Your administrator assigns one of three roles. This decides what you can see and change.

Role	Can see	Can change
Agent	Only records assigned to you	Only records assigned to you
Manager	Everything across the team	Team records; can assign leads to agents
Administrator	Everything	Everything, plus user management and data deletion

If a colleague cannot find a lead you are discussing, it is almost certainly assigned to someone else. Ask a manager to reassign it rather than creating a duplicate.

2 Finding your way around

On a computer the menu sits down the left-hand side. On a phone it becomes a row of icons across the top that you can swipe through. The same seven areas are available either way.

Area	What it is for
Dashboard	Your daily starting point: key numbers and follow-ups due
Leads	Enquiries that have come in but are not yet qualified
Contacts	People you are actively working with
Properties	Your listings, with photographs
Pipeline	Deals in progress, arranged by stage
Reminders	Every follow-up you have set, oldest first
Reports	Totals, conversion rate and the agent leaderboard
Users	Managers and administrators only — approve people and set roles

The dashboard at a glance

- Open leads — enquiries not yet qualified or disqualified.
- Qualified — how many became contacts, with your conversion rate.
- Open pipeline — total ringgit value of deals still in play.
- Follow-ups due — reminders you have set, flagged when overdue.

Agents see their own figures. Managers and administrators see the whole team, labelled Team overview.

3 Leads — capturing enquiries

A lead is an enquiry: someone who has shown interest but is not yet a client. Leads arrive from your website, from Facebook or Google advertising, from a CSV file, or you type them in yourself.

Adding a lead by hand

- 1 Go to Leads and choose New Lead.
- 2 Fill in Name and Phone. These two are required; everything else can follow later.
- 3 Enter the phone in international format — +60123456789. This keeps WhatsApp working.
- 4 Set Interest to buy, rent, sell or invest.
- 5 Add Budget min and Budget max in ringgit, and Preferred areas such as “Mont Kiara, Bangsar”.
- 6 Tick Consent to be contacted (PDPA) if the person agreed to be contacted.
- 7 Choose Save.

Consent matters. Tick the box only when the person actually agreed — on a web form, in writing, or clearly in conversation. It is your record that contacting them is lawful under the PDPA.

Finding a lead

The Leads screen has a search box and a status filter. Search matches name, phone or email. Filter by new, contacted, qualified or disqualified. Long lists are split into pages of 25.

Importing many leads from a CSV file

Use this after exporting from Facebook Ads Manager or Google Ads. Column names are matched loosely, so exports usually work without editing.

- 1 Go to Leads then Import CSV.
- 2 Choose your file, or paste the contents into the box.
- 3 Check the preview text, then choose Import leads.
- 4 Read the summary: rows created, duplicates merged, and any failures with line numbers.

Recognised columns: name, phone, email, interest, preferredAreas, budgetMin, budgetMax, consent. Phone accepts 012-345 6789 or +60123456789. Budgets accept 850000, "RM 850,000" or 850k.

Duplicates are merged automatically by phone or email, so re-importing the same file will not create a second copy of anyone. Rows with no consent column are still imported but carry no consent record — the summary tells you how many.

Working a lead

Open a lead to see its details, log what happened, and message the person.

- 1 Open the lead from the list.
- 2 Use WhatsApp to write a message. It opens WhatsApp with the text ready, and records that you sent it.
- 3 Under Activity & Notes, pick a type — call, email, viewing, note or whatsapp.
- 4 Write what happened in Notes.
- 5 Set a Follow-up reminder date and time if you need to chase this. Times are Malaysian time.
- 6 Choose Log activity.

Log every call and viewing, even briefly. The timeline is what lets a colleague pick up your client if you are on leave, and it is what the reports count.

4 Qualifying a lead into a contact

When an enquiry becomes someone you are genuinely working with, qualify it. The lead becomes a contact, and the whole history follows across.

- 1 Open the lead.
- 2 Choose Qualify → Contact.
- 3 You are taken straight to the new contact record.

If the enquiry is going nowhere — wrong number, no budget, not serious — choose Disqualify instead. Nothing is deleted; the lead is simply marked and drops out of your open list.

Qualifying happens once and cannot be undone from the screen. The original lead stays linked to the contact, so nothing is lost — but you cannot edit the lead afterwards.

5 Contacts — people you are working with

A contact holds more than a lead: nationality, occupation, identity document, notes, and the full activity history.

- Search by name, phone or email from the Contacts screen.
- Edit to add nationality, occupation, identity details or notes.
- WhatsApp to message them, logged automatically.
- Activity & Notes works exactly as it does on a lead.
- Create Deal starts tracking a transaction — see section 7.

Identity-card and passport numbers are sensitive personal data. Record them only when you genuinely need them for a transaction, never in the free-text notes field.

6 Properties — your listings

- 1 Go to Properties and choose New Property.
- 2 Give it a Title — how you would describe it to a client.
- 3 Choose Listing type (sale or rent) and Property type — condo, serviced apartment, terrace, semi-D, bungalow, land, shop or office.
- 4 Set the State and Area, and the full address if you have it.
- 5 Add size, bedrooms, bathrooms, car parks and the asking price.
- 6 Record Tenure (freehold or leasehold), Title type (individual, strata or master) and whether it is a Bumi lot — these affect who can buy.
- 7 Save, then add photographs from the property page.

Photographs and status

Upload photographs one at a time from the property page; delete any with the small Delete button on the image. Keep the status current — active, pending, sold, rented or withdrawn — because the reports count listings by status.

7 Pipeline — moving deals to close

A deal is a transaction you are working on for a contact. The pipeline shows deals as cards in columns, one column per stage, with a running total per column.

- 1 Open the contact and choose Create Deal.
- 2 Enter the deal value in ringgit and choose Create.

- 3 You land on the Pipeline. To move a deal, use the dropdown on its card and pick the new stage — it saves immediately.

SCREENSHOT

Keep stages honest. Open pipeline on the dashboard and reports is calculated from these values, so a deal parked in the wrong stage quietly distorts everyone's numbers.

8 Reminders and follow-ups

Reminders are created when you set a follow-up date while logging an activity. The Reminders screen lists every open one, with overdue items flagged. Agents see their own; managers and administrators see the team's.

- Set a follow-up every time you leave a conversation unfinished.
- Check Reminders at the start of the day — the dashboard also shows the next five.
- Times are Malaysian time, whatever your device is set to.

9 Reports

Reports show where things stand. Agents see their own book; managers and administrators see the whole team.

- Total leads, Qualified and Conversion — how many enquiries turn into contacts.
- Open pipeline — ringgit value of deals still in play.
- Leads by status and Properties by status.
- Pipeline by stage — count and value in each stage.
- Activities (7 days) — how much was logged in the last week.
- Agent leaderboard — leads, contacts and won value per agent.

10 For administrators

Approving a new member of staff

- 1 The person registers themselves at the sign-in screen and waits.
- 2 Go to Users. They appear as inactive, with the role agent.
- 3 Set the correct role, then activate the account.
- 4 Tell them they are in.

SCREENSHOT

14-users — The Users screen, where roles are set and accounts approved.

Deactivating somebody takes effect immediately and blocks every screen — do this the day someone leaves. You cannot change your own role or deactivate yourself, which prevents locking the last administrator out.

Choosing roles sensibly

- Agent for most people. They see only their own clients.
- Manager for team leaders who need the full picture and to reassign leads.
- Administrator sparingly — it includes permanent deletion of client data and export of identity-card numbers. Two is usually right: one primary, one spare.

Exporting or erasing a client's data

On any contact, administrators see a PDPA — Personal Data panel.

- Export all data (JSON) — everything held about that person, for a data-access request.
- Permanently delete — erases the contact, the originating lead, deals, activities, documents and message logs. You must type DELETE to confirm.

Erasure cannot be undone and is not covered by a soft delete. Use it only for a genuine erasure request, and note who asked and when.

11 Protecting client data (PDPA)

This system holds names, phone numbers, budgets and identity-card numbers. Malaysia's Personal Data Protection Act governs how you handle them. In daily practice:

- Record consent when you get it — tick the consent box on the lead.
- Collect only what you need. Identity documents belong in the ID fields, and only when a transaction requires them.
- Never paste identity-card or passport numbers into notes.
- Do not forward client lists to personal email or WhatsApp groups.
- Sign out on shared or borrowed devices.
- Pass any request to see or delete data to an administrator.

Leads that were never qualified are deleted automatically after 24 months, along with their activities and documents. Contacts and their history are kept, because they represent a real client relationship.

12 Troubleshooting

Problem	What to do
"Account pending approval"	An administrator has not activated you yet. Ask them to open Users and approve your account.
A lead or contact you expected is missing	It is assigned to another agent. Agents only see their own records — ask a manager.
No Edit button on a record	It is not assigned to you, or the lead has already been qualified. Qualified leads become read-only.
WhatsApp does not open	The phone number is not in international format. Edit the record and use +60123456789.
A follow-up fired at the wrong time	Reminders use Malaysian time. Check the time you entered rather than your device clock.
Photograph will not upload	Check the file is an image and your signal is stable. If it keeps failing, tell your administrator.
A page shows an error	Reload once. If it persists, note what you were doing and tell your administrator.

Questions this guide does not answer should go to your system administrator.
